Wednesday 20 November 2024 at 10 pm Xing presents at Raum, Bologna, schau, a performance by the choreography-maker Vincent Giampino.

In the solo schau, a derivation of Giampino's Umlaut project, the theatre is a re-choreography of the embodied symbol, like a car demolition press. One of the choreographic tools used in his solo is quoting, a means of re-assembly that places the performer outside of chronological time and operates as an umlaut on the bodily genealogy, since the origin is a continuous gap. Or, better to say, the body is a continuous reference to waste in asynchronous.

Giuseppe Vincent Giampino, choreography-maker and performer based in Rome, trained in Italy, Germany and Holland, where he graduated in choreography from the SNDO School for New Dance Development in Amsterdam. His first stage works have been shown in Germany, Belgium and Holland, and in 2017 a work co-created with his colleague Oneka Von Schrader was a finalist in the Prix Jardin d'Europe at Impulstanz in Vienna. Back in Italy in 2018, he presented his works in theatres and festivals including Fabbrica Europa and Teatro Florida in Florence, Gender Bender in Bologna, Teatri di Vetro, Short Theatre and Buffalo in Rome. In 2021 he takes part in Live Arts Week X, a settlement in the open field in Bologna: a system of attendance, subtraction and aggregation of various intensities, unrelated to the imperative to demonstrate. He has collaborated with artists, choreographers, musicians including Greta Francolini, Cristina Kristal Rizzo, Edoardo Ciaralli, Lady Maru. Giampino is interested in the definition of a system of 'choreographic poverty' around a light bodily object, stupidly abandoned to simplicity, which unlearns the display of itself.
